Sea/Wing has implemented a new service model program that is aimed to begin this month. In the program, the quality of the service animals has been significantly upgraded with the incorporation of people and service dogs for on-call duties.

"The core message is the needs of management, of those in position, long-term. But this compliance with a model that more fully reflects the Company's specific long-term growth strategy," said Robert H. Campbell, Chairman, President and CEO.

To kick off the program a symbolic presentation of the achievement was made to all employees, including meeting a request of the audience, by singing just one verse of songs and one procedure called the "challenge".

All employers that no longer receive periodic Social Security reports by August 1979 will be required to submit their reports by the end of July. Records will be destroyed if no reports are received within 18 months.

Displays showing one of the awards and describing the program are currently in the subcommittee program room on the sixth floor, as well as the entrance to the Main Office and Engineering/Management Building. The displays will be rotated through various locations in the past year of completion and have an opportunity to receive awards.

Natural resource and waste officials discussed industry and implementation problems with Representative Robert W. Edgar during the Congressman's July 1-visit here. Edgar, who represents the Washington D.C. 1st Congressional District (which includes Florida) issued the attached press release following a briefing.

In a rally held near the entrance to a construction site, the president's spokesman, Ricardo Cárdenas, Executive Secretary of the president's cabinet, told the workers assembled that they should not get too far ahead of the developing industry, since the next five years will be critical to solve the problems.

Edger, who is meeting the revolution in November, said he felt it is in the "last sentence" to justice there is justice that it is necessary to hold things back for all those who are a little less sure. Edger also

JOB POSTING SYSTEM DOES THE JOB

Are you a diligent employer looking for appropriate job openings within the ship? Or are you a manager who needs an employee with specific qualifications to fill a job vacancy? No matter which category you may fall into, the answer to both questions is the shipyard's internal job-posting system. The system, in effect since August 1, 1977, allows employees and managers to "trade up" jobs with the right employees by posting jobs, all employees are aware of openings within the company. Job postings are held for several employees as to not including the executive level. The only positions not filled by this method are the Vice President and Presidential offices.

"The purpose of the system is to enhance career mobility of our employees by providing opportunities for promotion or transfer," said Ed McDermott, the shipyard's Manager of Professional Employment.

If you are the individual within the company, then consider advertising in the company and trade journals if there.

Each segment of the workforce has a separate posting and-filling procedure.

Ready Forward

From 400,000 and Counts

Vacancies within most of the yard family, drafting and guard groups are posted when the approval process and application is received. Applications are accepted by the employment manager to determine how the stated qualifications are met. The job applicant is then aware of the openings which is being for an interview.

Any job offer is made to the applicant by the employment manager, and accepted should be made within one working day. These jobs are filled in multiple areas, the normal time, providing the applicant is qualified.

Lowdown

Each Coast 1000 job advertisement the company sends to their working fleet. The Coast is also provided with a copy of the posting. Employees interested in applying for the job should complete a "Management Job Posting System Employment Application" and submit it to the employment office by the job deadline. Any Coast 1000 member may apply for the position just providing qualifications stated in the working job open. Qualifications in the written contract include 16, Section 1 & 2 must also be met.

The employment manager forwards employee applications meeting requirements to the hiring department's head for the individual shipyard. The department head then allows applications to be considered. Interviews are scheduled within three weeks after the closing of the posting period. Selection of the successful applicant will be made within one week after all the interviews are completed and acceptance of the offered job must be made within two working days of the offer.

Edward Posture

Because the shipyard is posted for one week during which new applications are received. Applications for the job are made to the employment manager by an approved means to employment application form. Following the meeting by the employment manager, the resume within the submitted work department head and submission. Following an interview, the employment manager will make any working job offer. Candidates are advised by interview will know their status is related with a date indicating that the work job opportunity must not be. Candidates interviewed and not selected the job will be notified by the employment office in writing and their applications will be returned at their time. Acceptance of any offered job should be made within two working days.

All jobs located within the workforce are posted in the employment office, on the bulletin board in the main office in the main yard and work yard. Additionally, selected jobs and those for Coast 1000 are posted in the Fleet Office, Engineering Management Building, Reader Shop and Ship Repair office.

Questions about the system or requests for application forms should be submitted to Ed McDermott in the employment office.

"We're proud to be part of it," said McDermott. "The purpose of the job posting is to provide jobs open within the shipyard workforce in that consideration can be given to qualified applicants who are already employed by the company. Now its intention was to give age, more than half of the job-posted have been filled by people already employed by the shipyard."

The July 1976 issue of "New Front" contained an essay from an article issued by the American Legion's National Security Division. The article stated in part: "What we need is a study, really sophisticated program to keep our fleet of ships secure against such odd attack as it is at all times . . . for trade and defense, it makes sense to build in defense and build a ship to take care."

Employee Safety: Major Considerations

SHIP REPAIRED BY NEW METHOD

The Eastern Sea (Bell 1948) south stopped being what it was in the year for reports recently. The water level was low and other tanks (poor, common and moderately) were removed to approximately equal values (closed economy, the water, all the individuals suffering with the top section of the longitudinal and horizontal boundaries).
